PURE NORDIC

A MERCH COLLECTION FOR PURE NORDIC

Still Sparkling.

A t-shirt, a pair of grip socks and a billboard, made for the women who practise yoga and Pilates in Marbella.

OCTOBER 2026

People don't buy a product. They buy the person they want to be.

In Marbella, yoga and Pilates are a lifestyle: 7 am reformer, matcha after class, a beach club at sunset, drinking less. Pure Nordic already fits that life. The merch makes it visible, with pieces people want to wear for themselves, where the brand is a signature, not an advert.

The Pilates Princess
Matching sets, grip socks, matcha. Wants her life to look in order.

The Spiritual Yogi
Sound baths, retreats, slow mornings. Wants to feel connected.

The Wellness Achiever
Cold plunge, sauna, data. Wants to optimise.

The Nordic Local
Scandinavians on the Costa del Sol. Wants a taste of home.

Calm
Slow mornings, stillness, breath.

Vitality
Movement, the reformer, the summer.

Quiet Luxury
It never needs to raise its voice.

Origin
Glåmos, Norway. A real place, a real story.

Three pieces, one character.

A t-shirt you'd buy even without the logo.

01 Matcha is the ritual. It's the drink of this audience. Matcha whisked over ice and topped with sparkling water is a recipe they already make, and it needs a sparkling water.

02 The drink is the hero, not the can. A painterly watercolour glass under a huge stacked title. It reads as fashion, not promotion.

03 The brand as a signature. The recipe line, a small logo with the Norwegian flag, and a woven flag label at the side seam.

04 The garment. Off-white, boxy, heavyweight cotton, dropped shoulders.

ARTWORK · INSTAGRAM STILL LIFE

Two words. It only reads when your feet come together.

STILL · SPARKLING

01 Three meanings at once. Still water, sparkling water, and "still sparkling": still glowing after class.

02 Black and snow, like the two cans: black for still, white for sparkling.

03 The bubble grip. The anti-slip dots are bubbles in different sizes, like the ones rising in a glass.

04 The object they already own. Grip socks are a must in every reformer class. Ours are the ones people want to be seen in.

THE IDEA

STILL · SPARKLING

One word on each foot. It only reads in full when the feet come together, which in Pilates happens all the time. Three meanings at once: still water, sparkling water, and "still sparkling", still glowing after class.

DETAILS

1. Knitted word on the instep
   Jacquard, widely spaced uppercase. Left foot STILL, right foot SPARKLING.
2. Gold drop logo
   Knitted on the outer side of the cuff, metallic gold yarn.
3. Norwegian flag tab
   Small woven label sewn into the cuff seam.
4. Bubble grip
   Translucent glacier-blue silicone dots in different sizes, like bubbles rising in a glass.
5. Ribbed quarter-crew cuff
   Stays in place during class, doesn't dig in.
6. Reinforced heel and toe
   Denser knit where the reformer wears hardest.

ORIGINAL OLD NORSE
HÁVAMÁL · STANZA 11

WHERE IT COMES FROM

THE SOURCE

The Hávamál, “Sayings of the High One”, is an Old Norse poem attributed to Odin. Its 164 stanzas are practical wisdom for travellers and guests: hospitality, friendship and moderation. It survives in the Codex Regius, an Icelandic manuscript from around 1270, and comes from the oral tradition of the Viking Age shared across Norway and Scandinavia.

WHAT IT SAYS

On any journey, the best thing you can carry is a clear head, and the worst is too much to drink. Stanza 11 was advice for travellers in the Norse world, on foot and on horseback. It reads just as well at 120 km/h on the A-7.

Origin

A Nordic voice with real roots. It isn't us talking, it's Odin.

The road

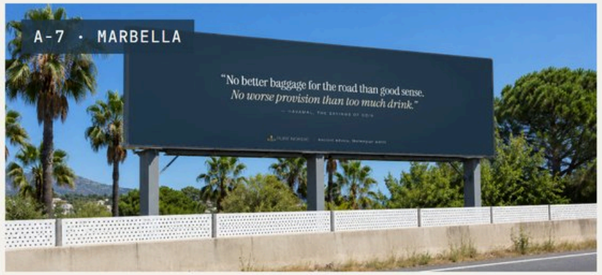

The line about the journey, placed exactly where people are travelling.

Drinking less

For a sober-curious generation, Pure Nordic is what you carry when you choose not to drink.

The tone

Advice, not a lecture. Road safety without ever saying “don't”.

The line, placed where people travel.

01 Format. 8 × 3 m roadside billboard. Fjord navy, one quote, the logo small.

02 Placement. The A-7 around Marbella and Puerto Banús, where the traffic stops and the line can be read.

03 The angle. Drinking less is growing, and Pure Nordic is what you carry when you choose not to drink.

04 The source. Hávamál, stanza 11, the sayings attributed to Odin.

From proposal to the street.

Samples

First run of tees and socks with a local maker, to photograph on real people.

Studios

Three partner reformer studios in Marbella: socks in the shop, cans in the fridge.

Launch

A "Matcha Spritz" morning class with the collection and the drink on the menu.

Billboard

One A-7 site for a month, with the explainer as a post on Instagram.
